HONGKONG, DECEMBER 24th, 1908.

Among the telegrams in the Australian papers

we notice one from London to the effect that "the electricians of the Government are devising some scheme for the connection of most of the Australian Colonies by telegraphic cables to be controlled by England."

The meaning of this announcement we take to be that the British Government are considering the feasibility of establishing direct telegraphic communication between England and the Australian colonies which shall be throughout its entire length, under British control. The importance of having cables which do not touch at foreign ports, more especially in the event of hostilities, was forcibly brought home to the British Government during the recent Anglo-Russian difficulties, and strong representations were made by the Governor, Legislature, Chamber of Commerce, and Press of this Colony as to the advisability of a direct cable being laid between Singapore and this Colony. The home authorities did not respond to the appeal at the time, but they are apparently now considering the whole question. The telegraphic communication from England to Australia is certainly at present liable to interruption at many points. It touches at Lisbon and lies to pass through Egypt, and is laid close to several foreign coasts, rendering it a difficult matter to preserve its inviolability in case of war breaking out. But the British Government have within their power to put a telegraphic cable round the earth which shall touch at no British ports and yet connect every important British colony and possession with the mother country. Still, it would seem, to reckon with the recented war, unless the Chinese succeed in preventing his crossing the frontier.

The annual meeting of the District Grand Loge of Hongkong and South China was held trict Grand Master, in the chair. Among the Witness was not aware of the serious nature of the case until he felt himself growing faint after he got outside. James Downes, S. G. Sherman, and William Gaudin, boarders in prosecutor's house, gave evidence in support of the case for the prosecution. Inspector Mackin said the prisoner was in a liquor when arrested.

The prisoner said it was not half-a-dollar but twenty cents he asked the prosecutor for, and the prosecutor simply answered him by a blow in the face and went away. Afterward he asked the prosecutor what he had struck him for, and the prosecutor immediately took out his revolver and pointed it at him. It was then that in self-defense he put his hand on the prosecutor's arm and the two took place between them. He explained how he came to have the razor on him by saying that he and some other men had been shaving with it in the morning, and after they had finished he put it in his pocket and forgot all about it until he happened to find it in the afternoon some time before this occurrence.

Sergeant Savage, of the Royal Artillery, was called by the defense. What he said was not after the cutting. The prisoner was running, pursued by Leman, and asked witness for his protection. Witness asked him what he wanted protection for, but the prisoner, who seemed much excited, did not tell him. Witness then looked round and saw Leman, who had a revolver. Witness asked what was the matter, and Leman said the prisoner had stabbed him. Witness then saw the prisoner, who was running, and the jury found the prisoner guilty of simple assault, and not guilty on the more serious count.

His Lordship remarked that the jury had taken a very correct view.

Sentence deferred.

ANOTHER STABBING CASE.
Shek Pui Chow, a Malay, was charged with stabbing Kwok Yai Choi, a prostitute, with the intent to do grievous bodily harm, on the 14th November; also with simple assault on the 14th November. The prisoner pleaded not guilty on the first count, and guilty on the second. The trial proceeded on the first count.

The prisoner was at the brothel of which the prostitute was the tenant, and he was in the room with her when he was charged with the assault.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty on the first count.

Sentence deferred.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Chan Amoi and Chu Afai were charged with assaulting and robbing Wong Ahn and stealing a gold watch and a gold chain, on the 14th November. The prisoner pleaded not guilty on the first count, and guilty on the second. The trial proceeded on the first count.

The prisoner was at the brothel of which the prostitute was the tenant, and he was in the room with her when he was charged with the assault.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty on the first count.

Sentence deferred.

FOOCHOW WINNER RACES.

Our winter races, which commenced on the 14th instant, terminated yesterday, and as we were favored with splendid weather must have been enjoyed even by non-sports, while to racing men the numerous close finishes gave the greatest pleasure. No doubt the ladies who were kind enough to grace our Grand Stand found the intervals rather long, and some music would have been a great boon, but we have only been fortunate enough to secure a band once during the existence of the Race Club.

The fields were small throughout, and most of the prizes went to Shanghai-bred ponies, but this simply seemed to make the enthusiasm of the spectators all the more.

The Ladies' Purse was contested for by Fochow, which was an excellent finish between the Brothers. To the "Major" to whom it was presented by Mrs. Spence in a graceful speech, which was suitably replied to by the winner. The greatest upset of the meeting was the victory of "Dot" in the Consolation Cup race; the beating at starting being 10 to 1 against a win, and 2 and 3 to 1 against a place.

Dot, the Champion in a contest, and if he keeps his present form will do the same in Hongkong notwithstanding the best of first-class animals we are going there.

Appended are the results:

FIRST DAY, 14th December.

The "Sovereigns" Cup, (presented) value $100; for all China ponies; weights as per scale; entrance $5. Half a mile.
